

Said Cupid, one day, as he chanced by my way,
"I've been quite unsuccessful of late.
This old-fashioned bow and these arrows, you know,
Are certainly not up-to-date.
Now there's one clever thing I have thought of for spring—If an officer only was willing,
I might borrow a sword, and with never a word,
I might make a very good killing." Away to the post went the blind god. A host Of the latest and best swords were shown him.
And selecting a blade, he scratched many a maid.
Not a few were the old ones who'd known him.
But later I found he was holding his ground.
With the little old bow and the darts, And, shaking his head, "They're such slight wounds," he said, "The sword never reached to their hearts."

The average visitor in the city the lack of matrimonial affairs is ever a subject for comment. It would seem that at least some of the pretty maiden of the town had been immersed in the river Styx so apparently invulnerable are they. Numbers of sighing swains are constantly calling in the services of the little blind god yet nothing more than a rather anatimated flirtation results. There would seem to be no reason why the marrying epidemic which prevailed last season should have been entirely wiped out. There is surely no lack of material and unless some of the principals in some of the flirtations are absolutely immune there should be a spirited revival of the same affection during the present semi-quiet season. If Cupid remains as inactive during the Lenten time as he has during the merry months, there will be no special altar scenes next June for the announcements so far are few. Although this is the penitential season it is also the season when the "young man's fancy," etc., and if the fancy fails to work there is surely something wrong with the climate.

In the rest from the gay round of social duties and activities the devotees of society are finding time for many charitable deeds this season. These, with the club meetings, the sewing clubs and the less formal affairs, allowable to those who are not ultra-religious, will tend to keep the fair ones from wearying of the tedious quiet.

Miss Florence Grant was the hostess yesterday at a very prettily appointed luncheon at which covers were laid for twelve. The table decorations were all in the high school colors, the favors being daintily tied with red and black.
A handsome centerpiece of red carnations was surrounded by a circle of the same flowers with ribbons extending to the place card of each guest. The young ladies present were the Misses Jean Odell, Kate Groo, Della Richards, Merce Berkley, Phoebe Harding, Kate James, Ethel Parker, Ethel Rogers, Eva Dix, Emma Groebbeck and Nell Fennimore.

Mr. and Mrs. G. K. Smith entertained at a very prettily appointed dinner Wednesday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. James Robinson of Montreal, Canada. The decorations were smilax, and La France roses and favors of the flowers were given to each guest. The place cards were dainty water-color sketches. The guests present to meet Mr. and Mrs. Robinson were Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Rhodes, Mr. and Mrs. J. E.
Evans, Dr. and Mrs. Clarence T.
Brown, Mr. and Mrs. George Orr, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Hutchinson, Mr. and Mrs. John Reed.

tain the Lady Macabees of Banner hive, and their friends, at a Kensington Tuesday at 978 East Fourth South.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. McAllister have announced the marriage of their daughter Laura to Mr. Edmund L.
Chesney, the marriage having taken place in this city on March 3. Mr. and Mrs. Chesney will be at home to their friends after March 20 at 7 Emery flat.

Mr. William Hart was very pleasantly surprised at his home Tuesday in honor of his seventy-third birthday. The house was beautifully decorated with carnations and smilax.
The invited friends were: Mr. and Mrs.
Samuel Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Palmer De Long, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Slaughter, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Osborne, Mr. and Mrs.
Paul Olsen, Mr. and Mrs. John Gallacher, Mesdames Wagstaff, Wright, Goodwin and Corbett; Misses Evelyn Slaughter, Lizzie Hart and Eva Hart De Long; Messrs. John and Sam Hart.

Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Richmond have issued invitations for the wedding reception of their daughter Grace, who will be married to Mr. Charles Irvine Sturrock, the marriage to take place March 13 at the home of Mr. and Mrs.
R. Moore, 883 West Second South.

The Combination club planned a very successful surprise party on Mr. and Mrs. D. Purdie, sr., at their home on Fourth West street on Friday evening. Music, dancing and recitations passed a pleasant evening. Refreshment were served during the evening. A number of vocal selections were beautifully rendered by Mr.
W. B. Lowry. Those present were:

successful dancing party at the Ladies' Literary club last Friday evening.
The last business meeting of the club was held at the home of Percy Clark.
After the meeting refreshments were served.

Mrs. C. W. Midgley entertained at a children's party Friday last, the occasion being the eleventh birthday of her son Van. Music and games were features of the afternoon's entertainment, after which refreshments were served. Mrs. Midgley was assisted in entertaining the little ones by Mrs. J.
P. McElmer. Those present were the Misses Amy Bettinger, Mona Vissing, OGDEN.

As is usual, the first weeks in Lent have been the quietest of the social season. The few affairs of the past week have been very informal indeed.

A second dance was given in honor of Luke Crawshaw Friday evening, prior to his departure for Great Britain. A large number of his friends attended.

Although only a small number of dancers attended the colonial ball Tuesday evening a very enjoyable time was had by all. Many costumes of the colonial period were worn which were exceedingly pretty.

Many Ogden people attended the performance of "Sherlock Holmes" in Salt Lake Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Clara Roberts chaperoned a box party at the Florence Roberts production on Saturday afternoon.

Miss Birdie Bowman entertained very informally at a chafing dish party Friday evening.

The Schubert Music club will meet Monday evening, March 9, with Miss Ella Tavey, 530 Twenty-third street.

The Friday Night club assembles Friday evening, March 13.

The residence of G. H. Islaub was raided Wednesday evening by the employees of the Ogden knitting works, who desired to express to their manager, before his retirement for the business, the love and esteem in which they held him, by presenting him with a beautiful gold-headed umbrella.

Miss Elvina Mortensen made the presentation speech, to which Mr. Islaub feelingly responded. A delicious supper was served and a most enjoyable evening spent.

The home of E. O. Wattis on Twenty-eighth street was the scene Friday evening of a merry surprise party in honor of the anniversary of his birth.
The immediate relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Wattis were the guests, enjoying a most delightful evening.

Cards are out announcing the forthcoming wedding of Miss Annie Fowler to Walter Heller, in the temple at Salt Lake, March 11. A reception will be given the same evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Heller, Orchard avenue.
